

Art Class Update

Fall & Winter 2016

Tuesdays & Thursdays

Good morning everyone! Fall is in the air, birds are filling their gullets and I'm preparing shows and classes. One of the quotes that comes to mind, for me is: "Reality is ever-changing, ever-growing, indefinable." -Barbara Ann Kipfer Art allows me to change and evolve through my own insights taking on reality. It grounds and nurtures so many of us. There is no need to feel that we must be outstanding artists in our own rights. Just allow the time to breathe and create...a meditation in itself.

I'm considering September 8 (Thursday) for the first studio class of the fall. Tuesdays & Thursdays are shining for class. Sessions in the day would include 1-3 pm &/or 7-9 pm. I would love input for anyone who is interested. Also know you can contact me, at anytime, if you would like private classes. I will be gone the month of October but will continue on schedule November 8. Once I have input and names I will send out a final calendar.

Let's create!

Taking ourselves less serious

Yup, borrowing a cartoon from the New Yorker, I am all about a good laugh! Taking ourselves less serious = growth and harmony. Classes should be fun and they should be about you as an individual!

Heading for Bozeman

“Emersed” to the left was accepted into the Emerson show Intersections of Trout and Art! The reception is September 9, 2016.

Mural in Stevensville

I was very fortunate to create a mural in downtown Stevensville. Stop in on your way through and check it out. Location: Stevensville Main St. Assoc. 102 Main St.

International Sculpture Park

Lincoln Montana is surging ahead with new artists and events the month of September. I am beyond excited to be helping with the fall art camp. See the website for details:

Fall Fun!

Books, pubs, good cheer, grandbabies, friends & laughter! We are blessed beyond what we know. At times this is difficult to remember with politics and world situations. May we be grounded enough to make a difference in our neck of the woods. Photo taken: Browne's Tavern, Spokane WA. Blessings to all of you. Annie
